

A message from Rodney Doyle, SEMO General Manager:

SEMO will always ensure the electricity market is resilient and effective. This especially applies in the current COVID-19 crisis. During these unprecedented times, we will work with all stakeholders to sustain market operations. We have already engaged with market participants and generators.

We are also working with government departments and regulators in Ireland and Northern Ireland.

We have taken several precautionary steps - including working from home for non-core staff. This action is for the safety and well-being of all our team. It is also part of a package of robust measures that will sustain the ongoing operation of the electricity market.

With these contingency plans, SEMO will remain focused on mitigating the impact of COVID-19 on the electricity market.

Arrangements for the upcoming T-4 Capacity Market Auction remain unchanged.

Thank you for your co-operation during these difficult times. Please do not hesitate to get in touch through our continued weekly participant calls, and logging queries at info@sem-o.com if you have any specific concerns.

We're all in this together, and SEMO will do all we can for the greater good. Stay safe and stay well.
